

MAURA CLOTILDE VIEZZOLI

Born in GENOVA, ITALY

Nationality ITALIAN

She graduated in Social Psychology from the University of Rome La Sapienza, 1981.

She took the specialization in Social Research Methods and Techniques, 1991, University of Rome La Sapienza.

Since June 2019, she has been President of CISP (International Committee for the Development of Peoples) of which she is co-founder (1983). She has chosen international cooperation for development and the development of the Third Sector as her area of commitment and professionalism, giving special attention to the issue of inequalities, high education as a requirement for local leadership, respect for the rights of people with disabilities, and all fragile subjects.

She has collaborated as a consultant with private and public entities (Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Ministry of Welfare, Italian Development Cooperation Agency, Link, etc.).

He has been in charge of the Higher Education Area in International Development Cooperation since 1997, founded a first Master's degree in cooperation and development at the University of Pavia in partnership with the university itself and other subjects, and later various other Master's degrees in different countries of the World (Bethlehem, Nairobi, Cartagena des Indias, Kathmandu)

Teaches "Monitoring and Evaluation for Results-Based Project Implementation" in various undergraduate and postgraduate courses in Italy and abroad.

Holds various representative positions at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Cooperation and other institutions; Represents CISP in various networks of non-governmental organizations, academic and training institutions.